HEAVY RAINS FLOOD ROADS AND FIELDS

Mokena Resident Is Granted A Divorce

Mrs. Dorothy Westman, 27, a former war worker now living in Mokena, was granted a divorce from her husband John, a sheet-metal worker, by Circuit Judge Robert J. Dunne recently on grounds of habitual drunkenness.

Mrs. Westman asserted the metal worker fell down the stairs so often in his cups that the wrath of landlords was aroused, forcing them to move frequently. She asked no alimony and was granted her maiden name of Entwistle.

CIVIC ASSOCIATION GIVES BINGO PART FOR RED CROSS

The Red Cross has appealed to the Mokena Civic Association for assistance.

The association willingly responds and will give a special featured Bingo party Saturday night in the Mokena School gymnasium at 8:30 sharp. A special game will be played where the winner will receive a $25 Victory Bond. There will be twenty games played. There is a door prize. Let us help the Red Cross who helps our boys. This promises to be a big party.

DR. FOULKNER WILL SPEAK ON LIVE STOCK SANITATION

Live stock sanitation and disease control will be the topic of an address to be given by Dr. C. M. Faulkner of Manhattan at the Agriculture Department of the Joliet Township High School on the evening of March 21st at 8 p. m. Inasmuch as livestock diseases are one of the serious menaces to agricultural production during this wartime period, and since we have very serious problems in the field of poultry, swine and dairy diseases facing Will County farmers it is expected that a large crowd will be in attendance.

Farmers who have attended the food production war training classes during the past winter are especially invited to attend these meetings as they count for one of their regular meetings in class attendance records. Dr. Faulkner is an outstanding veterinarian who has had many years of experience and has many friends in this territory.

ILL. MEDICAL DIRECTOR ADDRESSES NEW LENOX PTA

That wartime conditions impose even greater stresses and strain on children than on adults, and that family stability must be maintained at all costs, were two points made by Dr. Rudolph G. Novik, Medical Director of the Illinois Society for Mental Hygiene, in an address sponsored by the New Lenox Grade school PTA in New Lenox, Tuesday evening, March 14.

"Contrary to common impression, the pre-school child does not escape the deprivations and strains that war may bring him, even though provided with the physical needs," Dr. Novik stated. "When the knowledge of the psychic needs of the pre-school child is more widespread, parents will be just as frightened at the thought of deficiencies in the child's psychic development, as the disturbance of 'mother relationship' was at the thought of vitamin or nutritional deficiencies."

For the sake of the pre-school child, Dr. Novik said, the stability of the family unit must be maintained at all costs, and this stability is in turn based on the stability of the mother and her presence in the home. In his opinion, Dr. Novik added, the last person to be employed in industry is the mother of children who are not yet old enough to supervise themselves adequately, but if the employment of mothers is necessary to win the war, definite proof should be given at the time of employment that children will be responsibly supervised by adults or other agencies both inside and outside the school.

Wartime conditions are particularly difficult for adolescent children, Dr. Novik asserted, inasmuch as the adolescent is already experiencing the throes of psychological adjustment. "Wartime conditions have served to intensify these problems," he said. "War, with its restriction of personal liberties, its ever-increasing governmental authority, its sudden resultant uncertainties of the future, has made the lot of the adolescent more difficult than ever. The disruption of the home, due to a variety of factors, and the gradual disappearance of the older age group, particularly the young males into military service, result in the difficulty of identification with the parents or the older individuals. The opportunity for the imposition of adult demands upon the adolescent is much greater now than in peacetime, and that is another difficulty the adolescent must face."

Frankfort Lions Make Merry At 4th Charter Night

The Frankfort Lions Club 4th Annual Charter night banquet held in the parlors of the St. Peter Ev. church in Frankfort Tuesday night was an event which will be long remembered for its fine spirit of fun and friendliness.

The ladies outdid themselves in a very bountiful and delicious meal which was followed with a community sing lead by Frankfort's own maestro, Arthur Lambrecht. Latest current song hits as well as parodies and some of the old time songs were featured. In order to enable the guests to all join in the songs, the words of each song were flashed on the wall in large size letters.

Mayor Geo. Sangmeister, who is also a Lion, opened the evening's program with a short address in which there were a number of clever take offs on the various Lions present and officers of the club.

Next came a program full of fun. The first number was put on by the Chicago Heights Kiwanis Club quartet in funny costumes. Next came the star feature, a musical comedy skit of the Gay Nineties showing five former Floradora Girls who bemoaned the fact that forty years ago the stage door johnnies were so friendly that they would fall heir to easy money, but instead they came down to scrub women and the scene depicted them scrubbing floors in their bare feet. Those taking part in the skit were: Walter Harnack, Wm Semmler, J. C. Knight, Emil Lenhardt and Dr. Hiroshige. Arthur Lambrecht was the director and Miss Lillian Collins of Chicago Heights presided at the piano. This little skit scored a real hit.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Winters of the Baptist church of Oak Park who spoke at the Lions Charter Night banquet last year and made such a fine impression that the return engagement resulted. He gave a very realistic talk on the subject "The Fine Art of Living". He has a philosophy of life, born of experience and training which gives his interpretations character. He held his large audience in rapt attention from the opening to the closing sentence of his talk.

Rev. Eizer, pastor of St. Peter's served as toastmaster and executed his part in a very creditable manner.

ANNOUNCE ENGAGEMENT AND APPROACHING MARRIAGE OF DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Doctor of Orland Park announce the engagement of their daughter Mildred Audrey to Mr. Harold W. Shroats, of Orland Township, son of Mrs. Elizabeth Shroats of Ashley, Ohio.

The wedding will take place Saturday, April 8.

The Mokena Civic Association will hold their regular monthly meeting in the Hatch Hall next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. A full attendance of the membership will be greatly appreciated.

FRANKFORT GRAIN CO. ANNUAL STOCK HOLDERS MEETING MARCH 27

The annual stockholders meeting of the Frankfort Grain Co., will be held on March 27th in the Frankfort Village Hall. Two directors are to be elected.

RED CROSS WAR FUND

The Tinley Park Red Cross War Fund Campaign, got off to a good start this week in spite of the weather which made it difficult for some of the workers to complete their canvass.

In addition to the large group of women who will canvass the residential area are Mr. Fred Fremder, President of the Tinley Park Business Men's Assoc., covering the business area and Mr. Wesley Stemm will call on the local Tavernkeepers for their contributions.

On March 15, 16, 17, 18 Mrs. F. H. Baldwin will be Captain in charge of the Red Cross Booth at the local bank with the assistance of Mrs. Trudie Swisher, Mrs. Hilding Anderson and Mrs. Mildred Cleveland.

Tinley Park has never lagged in any undertaking and it is certain that with approximately 150 boys and girls in the Service Tinley will more than go over the top.

"Because no matter where they are, 'The Red Cross is By Their Side.'"

The Tinley Park Production unit has completed over half of the March quota of 2500 surgical dressings. There are two more Tuesdays in March. Will you be there?

Mrs. Ebenhack has received 60 of the comfort kits to be sewed and returned as soon as possible.

TINLEY HOME COMING JUNE 23, 24 AND 25

The annual Tinley Park Homecoming will be held again this year in June. At a meeting of the Tinley Park Left Handed Social club, Chas. Hollowed and Sam Peck of the Peck Amusements held Tuesday night the date for the big event was set for June 23, 24 and 25.

A contract was made with Mr. Peck to furnish a Ferris Wheel, Merry-Go-Round and many varieties of games. An Aerial show is to be a new attraction. The various organizations of Tinley Park will operate booths in the grove adjoining the Saenger Hall where the Homecoming festivities will be held.

Benefactor of Humanity Arrived In Joliet 77 Years Ago

Seventy-seven years ago on good old St. Patrick's Day, March 17th an Irishman in the flesh landed in Joliet who was destined to be a help to humanity in distress and to point the way to heaven to many a despondent soul.

Yes, you have guessed it, the subject of this sketch is none other than the nationally known Peter McCarthy, Supt., of the famous Morning Star Mission of Joliet.

For many years Peter McCarthy

has been active in visiting the jails and police courts and maintains an office downtown at the Joliet National Bank Corner where he meets and greets his friends and passersby with his infectious smile and hand shake.

In spite of his added years, Pete is ever young in spirit and ever on the alert to do good.

With a Bible in one hand and a sandwich in the other, Pete reaches the heart and stomach of many a weary wayfarer and leads him on the right road to the heavenly home. He also maintains a flop in the Mission which provides a warm bed in cold weather for the friendless.

Congratulations Pete and best wishes for continued good health and more years of your splendid service to humanity.

TINLEY LEFT HANDED SOCIAL CLUB TO HOLD DANCE THIS SATURDAY

The Tinley Park Left Handed Social club will conduct their monthly social party and dance in the Saenger Hall this Saturday night at 9 o'clock until 1.

Music will be furnished by Jimmy Duggins Orchestra. Admission is free. Plenty of refreshments.

The club invites all prospective new members as well as the old members to attend.

Proceeds will go into the organ fund to which the Youth Fellowship has pledged $50.00.

FORMER MOKENA GIRL HEADS SCHOOL DRAMA CLUB

Virginia Nebeker, high senior student from Millbrae, Cal. has been elected president of the Playmakers, San Mateo High school's drama club. Virginia has been a member of the club since its foundation a year ago and has been active in the club's plays.

Virginia Nebeker is a former Mokena resident having moved to Millbrae a year ago.

FIRE DESTROYS OLD ORLAND LAND MARK

Fire of undetermined origin broke out in the attic of an old farm house on the former Jake Bartz farm on 135th street, and Wolf Road last Saturday afternoon. The Frank Gressman family have been occupying the place. Not having a telephone members of the family had to go half a mile to the nearest phone to call the Orland Park Fire Department. When the firemen arrived they discovered the fire had made considerable headway and was beyond control.

There was no water on the place so the fire department was handicapped from the start to fight the blaze. What water was finally made available by neighboring farmers hauling water in milk cans and the chemicals the firemen had brought was used to save other buildings on the farm.

Part of the furniture and personal belongings of the Gressman family was saved, but the 10 room farm home was a total loss. The property at present is owned by John M. Yunker of Orland Park.

The Gressman family have moved into the Ben Sayers home on 167th street Orland Township.

TINLEY POLICE CHIEF UNDERGOES OPERATION

Police Chief C. A. Steinhagen of Tinley Park entered the St. Joseph hospital, Joliet Monday afternoon and underwent an operation Tuesday morning for the removal of a cataract from his left eye. His many friends wish him a speedy recovery.

FRANKFORT LIONS CLUB MEETING NEXT TUESDAY NITE

The Frankfort Lions club will hold their monthly meeting and dinner in the parlors of the Frankfort Methodist church next Tuesday evening at 6:30 pm.

FRANK FOLKERS, FRANKFORT, STRICKEN BY STROKE

Frank Folkers, life long resident of Frankfort was stricken with a paralytic stroke at the home of his son Att. Herbert Folkers in Frankfort early Monday morning.

Mr. Folkers was removed to the Silver Cross hospital where three nurses have been in attendance.

He is the oldest brother of the former firm of Folkers Bros., who operated Folkers Market, Livery stables and other businesses in Frankfort.

TO CELEBRATE TENTH ANNIVERSARY

Ten years ago a happy group of women gathered in the Tinley Park Methodist church in Tinley Park and organized a Women's Club under the guidance of Mrs. W. B. Combs. This club became affiliated with the Third district and the national federation of Women's Club. Since that day the club has continued to be active and in commemoration of that fact the Club members and friends on March 22nd will journey to the Swedish Club in Chicago that occasion will be celebrated.

A dinner will be enjoyed followed by a program, under the direction of the program chairman, Mrs. Frank Baldwin. An anniversary ceremony will be conducted by the club's first president, Mrs. Charles Nielsen, Mrs. Frank Baldwin and Mrs. Omar Ebenhack, who were also presidents of the club in later years.

The high light of the program will be when Mr. J. Bradley Griffin, actor, playwright, and director of the Uptown Players will present his usual interesting features. The club members are most happy in having this privilege of having Mr. Griffin, with them.

Thru the efforts of Mrs. L. G. Bruder, program chairman for next year, an outstanding speaker of the day has been secured. He is none other than Mr. J. Bradley Griffin of Chicago, who is an actor, lecturer, poet and dramatic recitalist and founder and director of the Uptown Players. Mr. Bradley Griffin has appeared before large audiences at the White House in Washington, D. C., Radio City, New York, etc. For the past three years he has produced and directed the radio show, "Freedom on the March" from station WJJD. He has made many recordings and has been guest artist on several chain programs.

He conducts a class in better speech and dramatics of which Mrs. Bruder has been a member.

The club feels highly honored in having such an artist be with them at their tenth anniversary.

Marley Couple Observe 60th Anniversary

March 9, marked the 60th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert J. Cleveland of Marley. Due to the advanced ages of the couple the day was spent quietly at home where many of their neighbors and friends called to greet them and to extend to them their best wishes. They also received many floral gifts and cards which they appreciate very much.

On Sunday a 5 o'clock family dinner was enjoyed in their home in honor of the occasion. The dinner table was made very attractive with a large two-tiered wedding cake.

Tall white tapers were at either end. The cake, inscribed with "Grandmother and Grandfather, 60th Wedding Anniversary" was a gift from their grandson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eaton.

The guest list included, Cpl. Donald Cleveland, Hobbs Army Air Field, Hobbs, New Mexico; Miss Betty Marshall and Miss Betty James both of Hannibal, Missouri; Mr. Wm. Gordon of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cleveland and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Nielson of Tinley Park; Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Cleveland, Miss Shirley Cleveland and Bob Hueson of Orland Park, Mrs. Leola Martin of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Eaton of Elwood; Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Cleveland, Lloyd, DeLaris Darrell and Darlyne Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Moore and Ramona, Mrs. Mary Marshall and the honored guests. Their children were all present except Mrs. Elizetta Eaton who is spending the winter on the west coast and Wm. Cleveland of Warren, Minnesota.

The evening was spent informally after which ice cream and cake were served.

HERMAN C. GRASSLE WAGING ACTIVE CAMPAIGN FOR WILL COUNTY AUDITORSHIP

Elsewhere in this issue of The News-Bulletin appears the official announcement of Herman C. Grassle for renomination as candidate for County Auditor of Will County, an office in which he is completing his first term.

Mr. Grassle is asking the support of the voters of Will County who believe that business methods are needed in the conduct of County business and that all funds coming into the coffers of the County shall be strictly accounted for.

Official records of the County Auditor's office offer proof that during the first six months of his service Mr. Grassle recovered or saved the County approximately $6,000, an amount equal to two years salary for the office. For the past year the sum of $5,573,166.71 of County funds were audited in the office of Mr. Grassle who through establishment of a general control ledger makes possible a record for the first time in the history of the County of all appropriations and expenditures, together with authority for the same. This control ledger is open at all times to interested citizens, who are accorded the fullest information. "It is you who pay this money to the County in taxes in one form or another and you are entitled to know who receives it and for what purpose", says Mr. Grassle. Leading financial organizations, keeping watch on methods which have a most important bearing on credits are loud in their praise of the thoroughness with which records are now maintained in the County Auditor's office, the safe guarding going even beyond required of the office for duties prescribed by law.

Mr. Grassle has completed a tour of the County and announces he finds taxpayers and voters are awake to the high class service which has been given and which gives Will County a fine financial credit.

ORLAND TOWNSHIP HOME BUREAU HOLDS MEETING

The Orland Park Home Bureau held their meeting at the home of Mrs. Herman Gee Tuesday evening, March 7. We had a very good attendance in spite of the bad weather. Mrs. Cornelius, Cook County Home Adviser, gave a very instructive lesson on "Soy Bean Cookery" and Ways to use Left Overs. The food she prepared was served as a luncheon after the meeting. Guests were Miss Virginia Tabor, teacher of Home Economics at the Orland Park high school, and Miss Patricia Dowling, Cook County 4H delegate to the Illinois State 4H Junior Leadership Camp in 1943.

2.7 Inch Rainfall Report; Army Engineers Checkup

Heavy rains of the forepart of the week caused flooded highways and every field looked like a miniature lake.

The Lincoln Highway west of New Lenox was blocked for awhile when the Rock Island subway near Joliet became flooded. Albert Strass enberg drove thru the flooded subway Wednesday and reported that the water ran into the car but he managed to get thru.

Route 45 was badly flooded near Andres and the Rock Island subway east of Mokena was also flooded.

Governor's highway south of Matteson was shut off when the E. J. & E. subway became flooded.

Route 6 west of Wolf Road was made impassable when the pavement became badly flooded.

Hickory Creek went way over its banks south of Mokena and in the Lincoln Estates region, flooding yards and fields. At New Lenox Hickory Creek overflowed Cedar road north of the bridge and the New Lenox Lumber Yards was surrounded by the flood waters. Several small homes in Brookwood were surrounded by the flood waters.

Wolf Road north of Mokena in the vicinity of the Wabash railroad was threatened by high waters on all sides.

More than 2.7 inches of rain had fallen by 7:30 pm. since Monday evening.

The Chicago, Calumet and Des Plaines rivers reached high levels and forced county highway police to patrol bridges and highways for fear of floods.

The worst trouble was reported in Markham and Oak Forest. Park Av. in front of the Calumet Station on the Illinois Central, was blocked off from 172d to 175th St. as the water poured over it at depths of two feet in some spots. Sauk Trail road between Chicago Heights and Dyer, Ind. also was covered with water. The Little Calumet river overflowed its banks in Hammond, Ind. halting traffic on River Dr. and flooding several basements.

McKinley school in Joliet was closed as a near-by creek overflowed, flooding the school. Joliet area reported 2.5 inches of rain in the last 48 hours.

A representative of the U. S. Army Engineering Corps called at New Lenox and Mokena Thursday morning to check up and study the cause of flood conditions in this area. Water from east Will County and part of southern Cook County empty into Hickory creek which in turn flows thru Joliet. The heavy waters from this section are responsible for flood conditions in the Joliet area.

TRAVELING TEA BENEFITS NEW LENOX LIBRARY FUND

The recent Lincoln's Day Traveling Tea sponsored by the New Lenox Woman's Club for the benefit of the New Lenox Library was a very successful affair both socially and financially.

The New Lenox Library has been in operation for eight years and has at present 1600 volumes which include reading for all ages and some reference books and magazines. It is now located on the second floor of the Bruns Barbershop where the Red Cross rooms are also maintained. It is open to the public on Monday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 and on Friday afternoons from 3 to 5. Laura J. Morris is the librarian and there are about one hundred active readers on the lists at present. Among the later books to be added to the circulation are: The Best Loved Poems of the American People; Guadalcanal Diary, The Apostle, The Robe, East Wind, West Wind, Dragon Seed, Madame Curie, The Changs of China, The Lure of Alaska, A Tree Grows in Brooklyn, And So to Bedlam, and U. S. Foreign Policy by Walter Lipman.

The library is open to the public and operates under the same regulations as any other library.

TOO LATE

The Mokena Bowling News was received too late for this week but will be printed in full next week.

PARENTS OF DAUGHTER

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Knieriem of Monee are the parents of a daughter born March 13 in Chicago Heights. The Knieriems are former Frankfort residents.

Jitters in Japan

By Joseph Newman

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with The American Magazine.)

Japan is getting the jitters. We have it on no less an authority than Emperor Hirohito and his No. 1 war lord, General Hideki Tojo. Hirohito has told his pugnacious people that the outlook for Japan is now "truly grave," and Tojo underscored the divine insight of the god-emperor by adding that the war situation is "very complicated."

This, in the customary Japanese manner of speaking by indirection, is another way of saying: "The Yanks are coming."

And the Japanese man in the street, whether he shuffles along in his wooden clogs and traditional kimono or wears the pinching leather shoes and tight-fitting sack coats copied from his occidental enemies, knows what that means. It means that the despised Yankees are on their way to the heart of the Japanese Empire—and that they're coming with skyfuls of bombs for the industrial nerve center from which stems the terror and destruction spread by the Japanese throughout Asia and the Pacific.

The Japanese, far better than their enemies, know just how vulnerable they are. They know that once their outer rim of defense is cracked, the heart of the empire will be exposed to a deathblow. That's why the Japanese, in their opening stroke of war, pushed as hard and as fast as they could go to the north, south, east, and west, so as to shove the Americans from all bombing bases within reach of the main home islands.

And that's why, now that the outer rim is crumbling, Hirohito, Tojo, and the shuffling Japanese man in the street are very unhappy. They have heard what round-the-clock bombing has done to Berlin, Hamburg, Essen, Frankfurt, and other industrial centers of their retreating German partner. They know, as do Americans who have lived in Japan for any length of time, that the six key industrial cities of Japan will burn as fast as—if not faster and more furiously than—their Nazi equivalents in Germany.

Most Vulnerable Country.

The six key centers are Tokyo, Osaka, Nagoya, Kyoto, Yokohama, and Kobe. I have had a good look at all of them—the industrial Ruhr of Japan—and I was often impressed by the thought of how quickly Japan could be snuffed out as a world power by igniting the huge, sprawling fire-traps from the air. A good, stiff wind, which invariably blew over these coastal centers from the sea, strengthened this thought and suggested how nature, combined with feverish, careless construction of these cities served to make Japan the most vulnerable country in the world.

The construction was careless because the Japanese had neither the time nor the money nor the desire to change the basic layout of their cities from a feudal to a modern one.

Thus there was a mushroom growth of sprawling factories among the flimsy, wooden, boxlike houses packed tightly together in areas through which there are often only dirt alleys or footpaths instead of paved streets. After the devastating earthquake and fire of 1923 some streets were enlarged and some modern innovations were introduced. But this was limited to the business sections of Tokyo and Yokohama.

The layout and structure of the greater part of the Japanese capital and the key eastern part of the country are about as primitive as they were 2,603 years ago.

In Nagoya, Kyoto, Kobe and Osaka conditions are similar to those of Tokyo and Yokohama. The downtown business areas are full of concrete and steel, but the larger sections of the cities, where most of the homes and many of the factories are located, are covered with a forest of wooden boxes, which millions call home. So that even the fire-proof structures are trapped in the forests of wood and paper houses which, when touched off by American bombs, will turn into infernos.

The heavy concentration of industry and other military objectives in the six leading cities provides something of a bomber's dream.

Plenty of Targets.

If he comes in from the east and flies westward over the main island of Honshu toward China, as the Doolittle raiders did, the first target he will find in his bombsights will be Yokohama. Here the principal targets are the harbor, one of the two largest in the country, shipbuilding yards, warehouses, metal, machine-tool, and chemical plants, textile and rubber mills, and an automobile factory. The 18-mile strip between Yokohama and Tokyo is packed solid with industries turning out machines and machine tools.

Overseas Men Support U. S. Bond Drive

Outstanding Miler Relaxes at Studies

Gil Dodds, Boston divinity student and one of the nation's greatest mile runners, relaxes with a Bible after his spectacular run at Madison Square Garden. JESUS CRUCIFIED

LESSON TEXT: Mark 15:22-27, 29-39.

GOLDEN TEXT: He was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed.—Isaiah 53:5.

The crucifixion of Christ brings us to that darkest of all days in the history of the world, when wicked men with cruel hearts and hands crucified the loving Son of God. But, thanks be to God, it was also the day when bright hope shone forth for sinful humanity, for in His death Christ bore our sins upon the tree, the veil was rent, the old sacrifices were set aside, and the "new and living way" was opened into the "holiest by the blood of Jesus" (Heb. 10:20).

The cross is not just an ornament to decorate the steeple of a church, or to adorn a man. It speaks of the black horror of the cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" But it also tells of our God, who "so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son" as its Redeemer.

What does Calvary mean to us? It means that—

I. The Saviour Died So We Could Live (vv. 22-27).

The details of and circumstances surrounding the crucifixion are of deep interest to every Christian. We stand with Luther and weep as we see Christ's unspeakable agony, not only of body but of spirit, and we cry, "For me, for me!" How can any believer contemplate the cross and withhold self, substance, or service from Christ?

There would be less careless, selfish living if we would go often to the story of the death of Christ and recognize the loving, sacrificial devotion of Christ.

Equally heart-searching is the message of the cross to the unbeliever. He knows he is a sinner (Rom. 3:23); he knows that "the wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6:23), and he knows that "neither is there salvation in any other, for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved" (Acts 4:12). Here at the cross he meets that one "who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed" (1 Pet. 2:24).

Note the difference between the two thieves who were hanged with Jesus, for it is the difference between those who face Christ in our day. One railed on Him (Luke 23:39), while the other, repentant, had a faith that looked all the way into Paradise (Luke 23:43).

II. The Son Was Forsaken So We Could Be Accepted (vv. 29-36).

Awful was the railing and mocking which our Lord endured on the cross. It must have made His devoted, loving heart well-nigh break as He saw the scorn of the very ones He died to save.

Yet it was as nothing compared to that moment when He who knew no sin "was made sin for us" (II Cor. 5:21). Bearing the awful load of the sin of the world He knew the bitter agony of being forsaken by the Father. He turned His head away and we hear that saddest of all cries, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

We cannot fathom the full meaning of that hour, we dare not attempt to explain it, we can only accept it and thank God that because He did become sin for us we may be "made the righteousness of God in him" (II Cor. 5:21). He died that we might live. He was forsaken that we might be "accepted in" Him "the beloved" (Eph. 1:6).

After the darkness, however, comes the light. He died not as a martyr, a vanquished gladiator defeated in battle; no, there was victory.

III. The Veil Was Rent So We Could Enter (vv. 37-39).

The death of Jesus was not the pitiful weakening of a human martyr. Here was the Son of God, crying with a loud voice (v. 37), giving up His spirit to the Father (Luke 23:46), declaring that the work of redemption was "finished."

As a visible indication of that fact, and as a declaration that the old dispensation of law had given place to the new dispensation of grace, God tore the temple veil in twain. Only He could have done it.

No man could have torn this sixty-foot long, twenty-foot wide, and inch-thick curtain, and note that it was torn from top to bottom. This was the act of God. This veil had hung in the temple to keep all but the high priest out of the Holy of Holies, and he entered with fear and trembling but once a year as the representative of the people.

Now all this is changed. We have now, "brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus, by a new and living way, which he hath consecrated for us, through the veil."

Therefore, "let us draw near with a true heart and full assurance of faith" (Heb. 10:19-22).

RUB FOR COLD MISERY

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Muffins

2 tablespoons 1/4 cup milk
1/4 cup shortening 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1 egg
1 cup Kellogg's All-Brans

Blend shortening and sugar thoroughly. Add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Brans and milk. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture. Stir only until flour disappears. Bake in hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins.

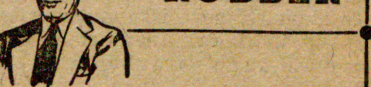

* For spiced muffins, add 1 tablespoon molasses to creamed mixture, and 1/2 teaspoon ginger or 1 teaspoon cinnamon to dry ingredients.
* For nut muffins, add 1/2 cup chopped nut meats to dry ingredients.

And remember, too, KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN by itself is a rich, natural source of the whole grain "protective" food elements — protein, the B vitamins, phosphorus, calcium and iron!

SNAPPY FACTS

ABOUT RUBBER

In 1912 tropical Americas produced their greatest output of rubber—62,000 tons. It is expected that we will have imported 41,000 tons from these countries in 1943, an important supplement to our synthetic supplies.

Some experts estimate that there are around 300 million Hevea (rubber) trees in Latin America. Most of them are in jungles, difficult to get at.

"Alcohol and driving don't mix" may still be a worthy admonition, but nevertheless, millions of gallons of alcohol are needed as a raw material to make synthetic rubber for the production of tires now so essential to driving.

INOCULATE ALFALFA—SOYBEANS ALL LEGUMES WITH

NITRAGIN INOCULATION

It costs about 12¢ an acre and takes only a few minutes to inoculate seed with NITRAGIN. Yet it frequently boosts yields of alfalfa, clover, soybeans, other legumes up to 50% and more. It increases feeding value of legume hay and pasture, helps build fertility. Tests prove it pays to inoculate every seeding of legumes regardless of nodules on roots of previous crops. NITRAGIN provides selected, tested strains of nitrogen-fixing bacteria. NITRAGIN is the oldest, most widely used inoculant—in the yellow can, at your seedsmen.

Twin plots of alfalfa growing side-by-side produced these vastly different yields. Inoculation made the difference. Test by Experiment Station.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of the Flying Fortress known as "The Swoose," which escaped from Clark Field, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Old 99, another Fortress, is struck down before it can get off the ground. The ground is littered with the skeletons of U. S. planes. No longer safe to sleep in the barracks, because Japs are moving into the middle of a cornfield. Later, they evacuate to Mindanao, and as they arrive Japs are already putting troops ashore on the island. Squadron Commander Major Gibbs goes out on a secret mission and fails to return. Harry Schreiber, the navigator, takes up the story.

CHAPTER VI

"About an hour out of Del Monte, Shorty Wheelless drops out of formation—we guess it's engine trouble and he can't keep up this rate of climb—and half an hour later Pease. As we come to the rendezvous point where we're due to make our turn and go straight in on our target, only thirty-five miles away, Lee Coats drops out—his motors we can see are weak, he can't make the altitude.

"That leaves just my pilot, Jack Adams, and Vandevanter to go on in alone. When we thought there would be six planes, we had planned to divide into two flights of three planes each. The flights were to come in on the target at three-minute intervals and at different angles.

"There are just two planes now, so Jack decides he'll pretend he is one flight and Vandevanter will play like he was the other. The two of us against this big gang of Jap ships we are closing in on.

"So, as agreed on, we come in first—flying north to south. But the overcast is so thick we have to get down to about 18,000 before we can see the target, and there it is—we're glimpsing it and then losing it and glimpsing it again through breaks in the clouds—a row of transports and naval craft escorting them.

"When we come in on the target, I'm down there in the lower jaw. But now my job as navigator is temporarily over, so I can leave it and go back to the bomb bay, where the bombs are hanging in racks on either side of a little aisle.

"Now the bomb-bay doors are opened, and light comes up around the bombs. And now the bombs are away. I lean over to look down through the open bomb-bay doors, feeling a little woozy because my oxygen mask is back by my seat in the navigator's compartment, and just before Jack Adams from his pilot's seat slammed those bomb-bay doors closed, looking down below the belly of the ship I think I see something, but then the doors slam shut and there is only blackness. So I run back to the navigator's compartment, and, boy! there they are—a whole gang of Zeros coming up after us. How did I feel? Just the way anybody feels the first time, no matter what they pretend later—it scared the hell out of me.

"There were five of them after us—climbing up and in on our tail. Our bottom gunner shot down the nearest one, but the other four kept coming in a tight formation. Jack Adams began wish-washing our tail up and down to give our top gunners a chance at them—no reason why the bottom gunner should have all the fun—and sure enough, the top gunner picked one out of that formation. That left three.

"So then Jack pulled a cute one. He throttled back suddenly and one Zero overshot us to the left, which made him a clay pigeon for our side gunner, who picked him off. Then still another came up under our stabilizer in the tail, and our bottom gunner got his second for the day. That made four Zeros down and one to go—and it was still going for us in spite of all we could do.

"We'd dribbled on down through the bottom of that cloud, and Jack was looking for a nice beach to set her down on. But there wasn't any beach—only jagged rocks with white surf wrapped around them—and we kept losing altitude.

"The hell with those, so Jack nosed her in toward land, still losing altitude fast, and then right ahead of us we spotted a big clump of trees—about sixty feet high. Well, there wasn't time for anything but a prayer, and not any long rambling one either. But Jack handled the situation beautifully. He pulled her nose up as high as he dared and just cleared those trees, and then, cutting the remaining two motors so we wouldn't have to climb out of her in flames, he made as nice a belly landing in a rice patch as you could hope for.

"You've forgotten that one remaining Zero? Well, I hadn't, because it had followed us all the way down. I crawled out as fast as I could and started running away from the plane parallel to the wing. The funny thing was Bill Railling, the co-pilot, was either stunned or felt comfortable right where he was. Anyway, he stayed right in his seat while this Zero circled and then came in, right along the line of our wing. I just had time to fall down on my chin and then it all happened in a split second. The Zero's guns opened up, so that the first slugs began kicking up the dust about thirty yards away in a straight line just a yard from my chin as she went by with a big wh-h-h-i-i-sh-sh-sh—the slugs beating a tattoo along the length of the Fort's wing, with old Railling dreaming away there, all relaxed in his seat, right in the middle of them, and, believe it or not, the boy wasn't even scratched!

"Within three minutes of the time we crash-landed in the rice paddy behind those tall trees we were surrounded by a gang of Filipinos, all waving the longest, sharpest knives you'd want to see. But pretty soon we convinced them we weren't Japanese, so they all got helpful and told us we were on Masbate Island.

"Because these natives wanted to honor the American officers who were fighting for their country, they brought me a donkey to ride. Of course to have refused would insult them, and yet I didn't dream the kind of a deal I was getting into. The first half-mile wasn't so bad, and I even thought I was lucky I wasn't walking and getting sore feet, like you do in the infantry. But pretty soon I began to realize, first just a little bit, and then more and more, that there are worse things than having sore feet.

"We crashed on the fourteenth of December and on the twentieth we bought an outrigger canoe for fifty pesos, and hired natives to sail and paddle us to the island of Panay, with me getting a chance to brush up on my navigating. When we were about forty miles from land I noticed the skipper of this craft of ours had crawled up into its nose and was peering down into the water. Why? Well, he explained, there were supposed to be a lot of floating Japanese mines here, and he thought it would be all right if we didn't bump any of them.

"The next day we landed on Panay, and were told the American forces were all ganged up down at its southern end, and when we got to them we reported to General Chynoweth. Then we really were in for it. Because it seemed the old 19th Bombardment Group had left Mindanao for Australia; so they grabbed us and attached us to a Filipino Field Artillery regiment, giving Jack Adams, Bill Railling, and myself a battalion to command, which we thought was going to be a considerable honor, since we were only lieutenants.

"Then we looked them over. They were all about high-school age. Half of them didn't speak English, and the job was to get them to understand you. Of course they didn't know what to do with a rifle, but this didn't matter, because we had only fifteen rounds of ammunition per man—not enough for an hour's target practice.

"The Field Artillery part of it all consisted of the name, plus six sights for old World War French 75-millimeter field guns. The guns themselves had been sunk on a supply ship in Manila Bay. The sights had been shined up and were in prime condition.

"We didn't encourage these kids to keep their rifles loaded, being afraid that if one of the guns went off in the dark they would start banging away and shoot each other and maybe us, so we gave them bayonet practice instead. Early in January they moved us over to Caygay-en on Mindanao Island—we heard all the troops from all the islands were to make a stand there. But no Japs. They gave us a section of the beach a mile and a half long to defend if they came.

"Right behind our lines there was a small Jap colony. We knew they were there, of course—we'd gone through their houses looking for radio equipment, anything they might use to send information to the Davao Japs—and we posted a small guard around them. But they'd slip out and go on down to Davao to join the Davao Japs, and there wasn't much we could do to stop it. We were only a handful ourselves.

"So I was tickled to death when word came to go back to old Del Monte Field, where the planeless aviators were being assembled for evacuation to Australia, where we would get safely back into the air again.

"I got to Del Monte on March thirteenth and we were all ganged up on the field, where we were expecting B-17's to carry officers and men to Australia. At 9 p. m. we heard the motors of a plane and turned on our landing lights. But it didn't see them and kept on going. We didn't know it then, but we didn't have A1 priority, for those planes that night were intended to take out General MacArthur and his party and their baggage and records—only the General hadn't yet arrived. But we supposed the planes were for us.

"About 11 p. m. we heard another plane and snapped the landing lights on, and this time it saw them and landed. Out of the Fortress stepped Lieutenant Pease of our own 19th Bombardment Group. He told us the other plane we had heard was Godman's—it had got mixed up and bumped into the sea.

"But Pease was immediately called over by General Sharp, who told Pease that General MacArthur had been delayed, and that the plane should wait over a few days until he came.

"Now Pease didn't want to wait over for a single hour of daylight on Del Monte Field, for by that time the Jap planes were swarming over the place. Pease knew the Air Force was trying desperately to hang onto what few Forts they had left, and he realized that if he stayed over the next day the infantry would make him quite comfortable in a foxhole at the edge of the field, where he could watch his plane become the prize for a Japanese turkey shoot, for Del Monte by this time was as unsafe as Clark had been, a fact the infantry didn't seem to have quite grasped.

"So Pease explained to Sharp it would be all right with him, provided General MacArthur understood what he was getting into, that he had a fine plane here except that it had just come from the Java war and was slightly out of repair. It was too bad, for instance, that the superchargers were out, but he hoped he'd be able to clear the runway on the take-off and not slip off into a cartwheel at the end of it, spilling the General's party and all that baggage all over central Mindanao. And then, if he did take off, there was the little matter of his hydraulic system, which had gone bad on him, so when he came to land the brakes wouldn't work, and he might not be able to stop when he came to the end of the runway.

"Well, General Sharp decided that it certainly wasn't suitable, and told Pease he'd better get started back to Australia before dawn.

"Pease, I said, 'I'm goin' with you. You don't know it, but you got a new navigator for this trip. Because I'm not goin' to stay in this damn place no more.'

"Well, Pease agreed to let me work out my passage that way, and also said he could take off fifteen other planeless aviators if they didn't mind the risk.

"We all got in, and discovered Pease hadn't been bragging a bit about his plane when he talked to the General. It was in just as terrible shape as he had said it was; in fact, he had been overly modest about it.

"Now take a look at us in Australia. Exactly forty-eight hours after we arrived the Australians told us Radio Tokyo had broadcast, 'It is now understood the American Flying Fortresses are operating from Batchelor Field near Darwin,' and they were one hundred per cent right.

"How they knew it we never learned for sure—probably from Jap pearl fishermen, who had been thinly scattered along this Australian coast and who when war broke out went back and hid in the bush. The RAAF (Royal Australian Air Force) boys would spot their campfires at night and try to track them down, without much luck. Probably they had radio senders, and even a layman could count our four engines and recognize us as Flying Fortresses.

"The country itself is as desolate and sparsely populated as the worst parts of West Texas and New Mexico, and the most important town for a thousand or so miles is little Port Darwin, with seven or eight thousand people, sitting there on the rim of Nothing-at-All. It has wide streets—like one of those Midwestern towns built in the boom of the eighties—a good hotel which is subsidized by the Qantas Airways and reminds you of the one on Wake Island, a band which plays in a bandstand in the park, and a zoo with a few emus, kangaroos, and koala bears. No fresh vegetables, everything imported in cans. There you have Darwin.

"Batchelor Field was about forty miles back in the brush, and it consisted of a couple of runways hacked out of the mesquite (it was hard to get tools for grading or dynamite for stumps) and a hangar run by the RAAF.

The St. Paul's Lutheran church Choir of Sedan Prairie are sponsoring a roller skating party Sunday evening, March 19 from 7:30 to 11 p. m. in the Saenger hall, Tinley Park. The public is cordially invited to attend.

SERVICEMEN'S NEWS

Jan. 14, 1944

Somewhere in Italy

Citizens Service Comm.

I received your letter today and was glad to hear from you. It sure seems good to hear from friends back home.

I have been receiving the Tinley Times regular. That's one thing we boys can thank our many friends for what you all are doing for us in Service.

I haven't as yet received the Christmas box the committee sent as you said they did. But when I do receive it I will in turn let you know as I know you are all working hard to see that us boys get the things you send. I hope it hasn't gotten lost. Will close for now hoping to see you all in the near future.

As ever,
Dave Zeilstra

PS. Give my regards to my many friends of the committee.

Dear Friends:
I received the package that you sent and want to thank you for remembering me. I want you to know that I surely appreciate it more than these few words express.

I also want to thank you for sending me the Tinley Park Times. Its pretty nice to see news items about people I know and to learn where some of the other boys in the service are stationed. I look forward to getting it every week, and thanks a lot for it.

We have been pretty busy lately and find little time for diversion. We only get one day off every two weeks. A great effort was made to make a Merry Christmas for us, but its not like being home with our friends.

I hope all of you had a Merry Christmas and extend my very best wishes for a Happy Victorious 1944.

Dear Mr. Semmler:

Just a few lines to tell you I am still kicking and I want to thank you for sending your paper. It sure seems good to read the news back home. I hope you are in good health I am pretty fair, but I sure am lonesome for my sweet wife, and do I ever love her. Tell Cooper and Hostert that I am working in the garage up here. I like it alright but wish I was back in the shop and in the good old USA. We are pretty busy here working on the trucks. Well Mr. Semmler there isn't any news up here. So keep buying war bonds and I will do the rest, to bring our good USA to Victory, and peace so I will close for now and thank you again for sending your paper and I hope to see you all soon so until then tell everyone I said hello. And God Bless you all.

My private war and how I am winning it!

I AM A GENERAL

My family is my army. My home is my arsenal, household appliances my artillery. With these forces and armaments, I am helping to destroy the hateful menace of the Axis.

WASTE IS ONE OF MY ENEMIES

On the unforgettable day of Pearl Harbor, I declared a private war of my own—a war on Waste, ally of the enemy. I make every calory and vitamin I buy count. I take good care of the things I have.

THE BLACK MARKET IS ANOTHER

I refuse to pay more than the ceiling price for anything. I accept no rationed goods without paying coupons in full. I boycott those I know to be Black Market traders.

HERE'S MY CAMPAIGN PLAN

My strategy is simple . . . Buy only what I need. Grow a victory garden. Can fresh foods. Make appliances serve better and longer by methods gleaned from Public Service Company's free book on their care and use. Save every penny possible in War Stamps and Bonds—so that I can speed victory now, enjoy more of its benefits later.

Out of the
CRUCIBLE
OF WAR

War is a testing laboratory and out of its crucible come many refinements. Only those things will survive that can prove their worth.

The railroads have withstood this gruelling test. They made the transition from peace to war quickly, without confusion . . . and their amazing cooperation with our fighting forces has won the admiration of all.

Some day—may it come soon!—the transition from war to peace will be accomplished. For that day, too, the railroads are preparing.

On the ROCK ISLAND we are pledged to carry on through the war, vigorously and resolutely . . . to provide even finer transportation in the post-war rehabilitation days. Trains will be better . . . schedules faster . . . there will be a degree of travel comfort never before experienced.

Every transportation refinement that comes out of this crucible of war shall serve peacetime America.

FRANKFORT

A new recruit at the U. S. Navy Training Station, Great Lakes, is John J. Jordan, 23, husband of Peggy Jordan, Frankfort.

It has been announced by Rev. Rudolph Malek, chairman of the Frankfort unit of the Red Cross, that the Lions and the Red Cross have been reorganized.

Mrs. Wm. Lockwood has been unanimously chosen to act as chairman and has offered the facilities of her home for the work and for the special campaign. The new unit has begun work of the present war drive and will begin in reaching the goal for Frankfort.

Assisting Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Hersbach on the Frankfort drive are Mrs. Walter Pfaff, Mrs. Arthur Lambrecht, Mrs. C. Bennett, Mrs. E. Smith, Mrs. F. Klepper, Mrs. E. Lenhardt, Mrs. G. Wassner, Mrs. S. Johnson, Mrs. E. Vollrath, Mrs. E. Warning, Mrs. H. Breidert, Mrs. F. Heisner and Mrs. C. Pfaff. Workers for the north side of town have not been appointed as yet.

Mrs. Elmer Bormet will entertain members of the Frankfort Home Bureau on Tuesday, March 21. Mrs. Edith Huffman, Will County Home Adviser will present the major lesson which deals with youth delinquency.

Rev. Carl Schrupp of the North Peotone Evangelical church will be the speaker at the mid-week Lenten service to be held at St. Peter's church next Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Lenten services are held each Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the Frankfort Methodist church.

Mrs. Wm. C. Bettenhausen was hostess to 25 members of the WSCS of the Green Garden Methodist church Wednesday afternoon. Devotions were led by Mrs. Henry Bettenhausen and Mrs. M. Andres was program chairman. Mrs. Earl Bettenhausen was in charge of recreation. Refreshments were served. Guests attending were: Mrs. Paul Mark, Mrs. Geo. Bobzin, Mrs. Henry Knater, Mrs. Orrin Deist, Mrs. Albert Steinberg and Mrs. Richard Borms. Mrs. Albert Borms will entertain the society April 12.

Rev. and Mrs. Malek and a group of the Frankfort Methodist church attended the Methodist Youth Institute held in Joliet Friday and Saturday. The speaker at Friday evening's banquet was a missionary from China who returned on the Gripsholm recently.

Members of St. Peter's Youth Fellowship enjoyed their monthly social at the church parlors Thursday evening. Devotions were led by Clark Bennett. Refreshments were served by Arlene Baughn, Shirley Haake, Ann DeVries, and Hazel Glade.

The Green Garden Home Bureau met last Friday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Chas. Genens in Joliet. The roll call was answered with current event topics. Mrs. Alfred Krapf presided. The Role of the Adult in Youth Training was the major lesson, presented by the Will County Home Adviser Mrs. Edith Huffman. Care of Electrical Equipment was the subject of the minor lesson, given by Mrs. Ralph Smith. Mrs. Harold Scheer in charge of recreation, conducted relay races. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Krapf Fri. April 14.

Mrs. Armstrong of the University of Illinois Extension Service will conduct a local leaders training school at the Home Bureau office in Joliet, Thursday, March 23. Wednesday, March 29 there will be a special lesson on furniture refinishing for home bureau members. Time and place will be announced later. The annual Fun Night program will be held at the Green Garden Town Hall Wednesday, April 12.

The Fighting Firemen defeated the Roaring Lions in a thrilling battle Friday evening March 10 at the Frankfort school. The Firemen held down such Basketball wonders as Hotshot Hiroshige and Bucket-Sinker Bizer. The Lions were unable to stop Whiz Warning's scoring and the guarding done by Merciless Mager. Both teams deserve a lot of credit because I think that everyone in the packed gym had a super time. Not only do the teams deserve a lot of credit but the Score keeper and Timer deserve some also. They were none other than F. J. Kohlhausen and C. G. Bennett.

The Firemen were called off the floor to fight a fire just before the game was to start-but they came back with more pep than ever.

This was the Lineups for the two teams: LIONS: A. Zechlin and E. Bizer, forwards; H. Breidert and R. Hiroshige, Guards; and W. Bobzin center. FIREMEN: H. Kohlhausen and L. Mager, forwards; C. W. Bennett and S. Johnson, Guards. C. Warning, Center. Because of a shortage of players there were no substitutions and the Lions drafted Warren Bobzin to help them.

In the first quarter the firemen got the tip-off and Bennett scored for the firemen-then Zechlin came back and scored two points for the Lions. Briedert (L) fouled Kohlhausen (F), but he failed to connect for the free throw. Bennett (F) fouled Zechlin (L) but there was no count to the Lions throw. The quarter ended with the Lions in possession of the ball and the score was tied 2 and 2.

The second quarter opened with a bang and Bobzin scored for the Lions. Then Warning scored for the Firemen and this tied the score up again 4 and 4. Bobzin (L) fouled Johnson (F) and he was given two free throws. He made one and missed one, putting the Firemen out in front by one point. Warning sunk a beauty from the side, Bennett (F) fouled Bobzin (L) and Kohlhausen (F) fouled Hiroshige (F) but neither of the Lions made a basket. The first half ended with the Firemen in the lead 7-10.

The 3rd quarter opened with Bennett (F) fouling Bobzin (L) (thanks to Bogdan the referee) but he failed to connect with a basket. Then Bennett came back to avenge his foul by sinking a basket. Then Bizer of the Lions got a hot streak and sunk two honeys. Warning followed up with a dandy from the side and Bizer made another. This ended the 3rd quarter with the Firemen ahead 11-10.

After two minutes of hard earned rest the two teams went out for the last three minutes of the game. The Firemen had possession of the ball and only twice did the Lions make any attempt to carry the ball to their end. There was no score in the 4th quarter although everyone on the teams had plenty of practice trying to hit the basket. The final score was 11 to 10. This is the second year that the Firemen beat the Lions. Last year they won 13 to 11. It is rumored that the Lions are already starting to practice for next year's annual game.

The box scores for the game were:

LIONS	Fouls	Points
Zechlin	0	2
Bizer	0	6
Bobzin	1	2
Briedert	1	0
Totals	2	10

FIREMEN
Kohlhausen 1 0
Mager 0 0
Warning 0 6
Johnson 0 1
Bennett 3 4
Total 4 11

In a preliminary game the Longhorns of Joliet beat the Frankfort high and the Grade school boys beat the Grade and High school girls 26 to 2.

The RNA donates cookies each month to the USO in Joliet and for this month Mesdames Merna Seivert, Jennie Reeser and Emil Braun are baking the cookies. Mrs. Edith Sayers and Mrs. L. F. Wilson will be the hostesses for the April meeting.

Dr. Dudolph G. Novick, director of the Illinois society for Mental Hygiene from Chicago was the speaker at the meeting of the PTA Tuesday night in the school. His topic was "Psychology in Post-War Rehabilitation". Mrs. Herbert Duerr, Mrs. Edw. Seivert and Dr. Jeanette Holt, composed a trio who sang several selections. At the close of the meeting the mothers of pupils of Mrs. Mainwood's room served refreshments.

Approximately 100 people attended the farewell party given Saturday night for Seaman 2-c Jimmy Hayes who is leaving soon to attend a radio school. He returned to Great Lakes Tuesday following a 15 day furlough. The party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Horn in Chicago. Music and dancing was enjoyed and a supper was served buffet style at midnite from a large table covered with a beautiful lace cloth, and patriotically decorated. Many lovely gifts were presented the guest of honor and those from New Lenox who attended were: Mr. and Mrs. Edmund

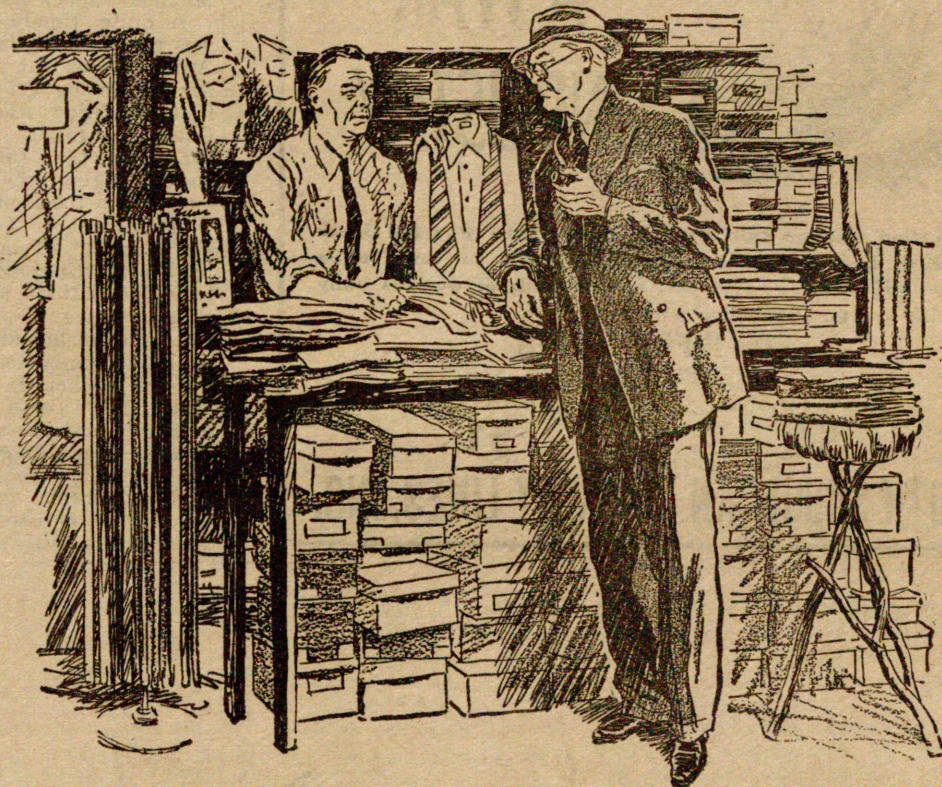

Knowles, Mr. and Mrs. James Sherwood, Miss Mary Theresa Sherwood, Mrs. Marion Quinn, Thomas Quinn, Mardel and Miss Shirley Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. L. Walsh Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brooks, James Brooks, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Brown and Al Biehl.

2nd Lt. Daniel McGuire surprised his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jake McGuire when he arrived home Sunday morning for a short leave. Sunday evening his parents entertained at a dinner for him and guests were: his sisters Mrs. Francis Miller and son Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Ruettiger and children Patsy and Bobby and Miss Margaret Boyce of Homer.

Mr. and Mrs. James Fugett and Miss Madeline Fugett returned home Thursday from Miami, Fla. where they spent the past six weeks with relatives.

Mrs. Della Gillette of Cle Elum, Wash. who has been ill at her home the past several months, wants to thank her many friends and relatives for the lovely cards sent her on her birthday Jan. 21.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Sorry Judge, my shipment of suspenders still hasn't come in. Some articles are mighty scarce these days. I don't get anywhere near as much as I could sell."

"With the war going on, Frank, we've got to expect those things. It's true of luxuries just as it is of necessities. Take whiskey, for example. There's a real shortage in that. It's to be expected when you realize there hasn't been a drop of it distilled in this country since way back in October, 1942."

"The only thing distillers have been making during that time is war-alcohol for the Government. So, I wasn't surprised a bit to read how bootlegging and black markets have sprung up around the country as a result of the dwindling supply. Our 13 years of prohibition proved that if folks can't get legal whiskey, they'll get illicit whiskey. Sure hope the shortage doesn't last too long. I'd hate to see this country turned over to the bootleggers again."

Dear Mr. Semmler:

For the past nine months your newspaper has reached me regularly each week. I thought I'd take this opportunity to write and thank you for such excellent service. To read about home and the neighboring communities certainly makes a fellow feel less homesick. It's hard to realize that a weekly newspaper would have such an effect on a fellow, but believe me it really makes a person feel darn good. Of course, I haven't been very far from home but still news from the community is something that is looked forward to with open arms.

I have been transferred to Great Lakes, and I wonder if you would be kind enough to change my mailing address. Now that most of the mail has to be forwarded from the previous station, a considerable period of time elapses before the paper arrives, but nevertheless it is still read eagerly.

I realize you and your staff go through a considerable amount of trouble for the fellows in service, and you can be sure it will never be forgotten.

Thank you again.

Sincerely yours,
Louis P. Barches

Dear Mr. Grassle:

Please accept my thanks for the courtesy you extended to me on my recent visit to Joliet for the purpose of checking into the financial condition of Will County. You are to be complimented on the records of your County. The required information was readily and quickly supplied by you.

While it is customary to compliment the County Official when we find excellent records, it seems to me that we rightfully should compliment the tax-payers who selected that individual. They have shown a high degree of intelligence in selecting an able man, which proves that they know that well kept records and rigid control of the County's financial affairs improve the County's credit standing, and your County on its record is entitled to a fine credit rating.

Very truly yours,

WAR BRINGS MANY CHANGES TO PEOPLE OF FLORIDA TOWN

Milton's Population Is Traditionally Democratic but New Dealers and Others Have Split; Taxes Chief Issue.

By BARROW LYONS

(EDITOR'S NOTE—This is one of a series of articles written for this paper by Barrow Lyons, staff correspondent of Western Newspaper Union. He has just completed an extended trip through the nation and in these reports gives his first-hand impressions of what rural America is thinking as we enter the third year of war and the first weeks of a presidential election year. Any opinions expressed are the writer's and not necessarily those of this newspaper.)

MILTON, FLORIDA.—About 27 miles northeast of Pensacola, Florida, is this neat little town of Milton, the county seat of Santa Rosa county. The 1940 census counted 1,840 inhabitants. The population has about doubled since then because the navy has ringed the village with flying fields auxiliary to the great Pensacola pilot training center.

Much of the new population of Milton is transient, remaining only for construction work. But many civilian workers at the airfields have rented houses or rooms for the duration. Permanent residents have taken many as boarders in the interest of winning the war.

Despite this increase in size and importance, no one expects Milton soon to regain its erstwhile glory as the principal port through which most of southeast Alabama once shipped its cotton and timber to the world and received supplies. Those were the days when sailing ships slid up the Blackwater river from the Gulf of Mexico to pick up the cotton bales piled three miles along the river at Milton awaiting shipment. The ships came also to get pine lumber. Old inhabitants can remember timbers two feet square and a hundred feet long hewn from the giants that once stood along the river. Ox teams carted away into the interior supplies brought for Alabama farms.

But the sailing vessels long since have disappeared, and the cotton goes by rail elsewhere, and the mighty pine forests have been cut down, and only three years ago, the big sawmill of the Bagdad Land and Lumber company saved its last log, while the newsreel cameramen ground out "finis."

Even before the Bagdad mill ended its long usefulness, many of the more ambitious young men of the county began to drift from Milton to places that were growing. With the exception of the merchant-banker-professional group left in Milton, those who remained were, on the whole, the older people.

During the depression, a very large part of the inhabitants of Santa Rosa county were on relief. One man placed the proportion at 75 per cent.

Dairy Farming Is Gaining Headway

In the northern part of the county, there is fairly rich farming land. Cotton is raised; also beef cattle, peanuts, hogs, corn, and cane syrup. Government authorities have urged the farmers to go in for dairy farming, and that is beginning to gain headway. Most of them are traditionally Democrats.

But in recent years, a sharp split has come about in the kind of Democrats they are. Those who have made money in business or professional work, are as violently anti-

New Deal Democrats as can be found anywhere. Apparently, it is paying large taxes that galls them most. The city of Milton was an incorporated town before Florida was a state. It doesn't levy very heavy taxes. Occupational licenses, liquor licenses, and a moderate personal property tax—now 21 mills—has paid the cost of local government.

There is now a sewer rental tax because of the $43,000 sewer project which the Public Works administration made possible in the early New Deal days. So it is natural that those who are profiting from the huge expenditures of the federal government should rebel against the tremendous income taxes that are recovering some of those expenditures.

A large number of Milton folk, and many in the county, are more likely to be on the other side of the federal operating statement. A considerable proportion cannot read or write. At present, about 1,600 persons in the county have received collectively $117,250 a year in welfare money in recent years. In September there were 621 who received a total of $9,771 in old age assistance, 45 who received aid to the blind, and 49 families with 110 children who were recipients of aid to dependent children. The federal government and state share 50-50 in this distribution of financial aid.

Yet a great many of the poor folk in and around Milton take so little interest in political issues that they are ready to sell their votes for a small sum around election time, according to observers who have had ample opportunity to know what goes on. Perhaps, if they thought the New Deal really were threatened, they might come to its rescue; but as it is, they can hardly be called New Deal liberals.

War Eases Criticism Of Tax Burden

S. D. Stewart, Milton town clerk, summed up the Milton attitude thus: "If it wasn't for the war, most of the people would be against the taxing problem. The higher taxes you get, the more you find against it. Personally, I'm an administration man. I think the New Deal has done a good thing with the banking law. I don't mean their regulation of Wall Street; I don't know anything about that. Pensions to the blind and guaranteeing the poor people up to a certain amount is good."

"Lots of people around here now think that with all the help they are giving to the poor, the government is trying to get control of politics—centralized power—and they don't like that. But most of the kicks you hear are because of income taxes and other kinds of taxes."

The most outspoken New Dealer in Milton is Joseph J. Wilson, editor of the Milton Gazette. He recently sold his interest in the paper and intends to move further west.

"There is a small group of old timers here, who are pretty prosperous. They are strongly Democratic but they would like to continue to pay people $1 a day and work them 12 hours. They never miss a chance to call the President the worst possible names."

"On the other hand, are the people who remained after 125 years of sawmilling faded out. Most of the skilled workers have gone elsewhere. Those who earned 15 cents an hour remained because they couldn't get away. Illiteracy is appalling among the older people, but the younger people are learning."

"I think congress is making the worst ass of itself. It appears to have taken the attitude that no matter what Roosevelt wants, it is going to repudiate it. If they don't compromise on the food subsidy plan, prices will get out of hand, and the farmer is going to be the chief sufferer when the bubble bursts."

As Milton, Florida, Views It . . .

Around Milton farmers and business men who have lived longest in the town, are chiefly descendants of English people. There are few other than Anglo-Saxon names on the registration rolls. Most of them are traditionally Democrats.

J. J. Wilson has urged the business men of Milton to form a chamber of commerce in order that the federal authorities may have a central group to deal with in working out relations with the town made necessary by the new airfields which surround it. Such a chamber also would bring in new industries and build up the town's facilities for vacationers. A preliminary organization fund of $2,700 was raised, mostly from contractors on government work.

GROUND GRIP TIRES THAN WITH ANY OTHER MAKE

WHEN a product wins and holds customer-preference year in and year out you know its leadership is established on merit. On every score, by every yardstick of value, it has met and passed the test of critical public appraisal.

Since Firestone developed the first practical pneumatic tractor tire 12 years ago and put the farm on rubber, farmers have shown an ever-increasing preference for Firestone Ground Grip Tires. Their point-for-point superiority is known wherever farm tractors roll. That's why farmers, today as always, use more Firestone Ground Grip Tractor Tires than any other make.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work--do not act as Nature intended--fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes--a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!
